Patrick J Dodd

About

Get ready for two high-energy country music experiences that bring the genre's heart and soul to life. "Cowboys, Legends & Friends in Low Places" and "Wide Open Country," starring Patrick J. Dodd, celebrate the songs and stars that made country music a global force.
Blending unforgettable hits, storytelling, humor, and honky-tonk spirit, the shows can be delivered as one 90-minute performance or two dynamic 45-minute sets. From '90s chart-toppers to timeless classics, Patrick J. Dodd takes audiences on a nonstop ride of music and memories.
Fully charted and professionally tracked, these productions deliver a polished, consistent sound while maintaining the energy and feel of a live band experience.
With powerhouse vocals and magnetic stage presence, he honors legends like Garth Brooks, George Strait, Alan Jackson, Johnny Cash, Glen Campbell, Waylon Jennings, Tim McGraw, Zac Brown Band, and John
Denver with authenticity and energy.
Expect boot-stompin' anthems, heartfelt ballads, sing-alongs, and plenty of laughs. Whether on a theater stage, at a festival, or a special event, these shows deliver an unforgettable night where the music lives on and the good times roll.
Patrick J. Dodd, raised in Nebraska, discovered his passion for country music early and headed straight to Nashville after high school, performing at Opryland USA and quickly establishing himself in the industry.

He soon shared the stage with top acts like Lonestar, Billy Dean, Diamond Rio, Collin Raye, and Alabama, launching a career that has taken him around the world. Now based in Las Vegas, he's become a standout presence in the city's country music scene.
Patrick's versatility extends beyond country, with performances alongside icons like Lionel Richie and Diana Ross, and appearances at prestigious venues including the Playboy Mansion.
Blending country, pop, rock, and more, Patrick J. Dodd delivers an engaging, high-energy experience filled with storytelling, audience connection, and unforgettable moments.
